- 5. Ministry to Reactivate Grassroots Spy Networks to 'Combat Terror', M. Taufiqurrahman, Jakarta Post, 2006-12-06The government is planning to set up grassroots spy networks at every local administration in the country, Home Minister M. Ma'ruf says. A new national body, the Regional Intelligence Community Agency (Kominda), will coordinate the work of the local intelligence offices, he said. Ma'ruf stressed the new agency would not spy on normal citizens.

Agreement between Australia and the Republic of Indonesia on the Framework for Security Cooperation (Mataram, Lombok, 13 November 2006) [2006] ATNIF 25, National Interest Analysis [2006] ATNIA 43, (tabled) 2006-12-06 [PDF] This document contains: A national interest analysis (ATNIA 43) including consultation attachment and text of the proposed treaty action. Background information includes: country political brief and country fact sheet; list of other treaties with Indonesia; list of treaties of the same type with other countries.
- 7. Get Out of Iraq by 2008, Panel Tells Bush, AFP, Australian, 2006-12-07The current US policy in Iraq was "not working" and Washington should pull its combat troops out of the country by early 2008, a top-level US commission said today. The Iraq Study Group said in its eagerly awaited report that US soldiers had a mission "with no forseeable end" and that time was running out for Washington to shape events.

Austral Policy Forum 06-35A: Avoiding the Cause: Australia and Political Persecution in West Papua - Scott Burchill

In a speech to the Castan Centre for Human Rights Law, Deakin University's Scott Burchill writes that the responses of the Australian Government to increasing unrest in West Papua have been either comical or disgraceful. "Blaming the messengers and avoiding the root causes of the problem may or may not pacify Jakarta, but they will certainly not resolve a problem which is now in its fifth decade - it will only make matters worse" argues Burchill. "On the other hand, an immediate solution to the issue is at hand and always has been, though it is studiously avoided - terminate the persecution, rather than the persecuted, and the problem largely goes away. As in the case of the East Timorese, anyone with a view on the subject is consulted except those with a primary interest in it - the West Papuans. The only question never asked is the only one worth posing: what do the people of West Papua want?"
