1. Diggers Securing Mideast Peace: Nelson, AAP, Age, 2007-04-22 Defence Minister Brendan Nelson has paid a secret visit to Australian troops in Iraq, Afghanistan and the Persian Gulf, telling them they play a crucial role in securing peace in the Middle East. The unannounced visit to the Middle East comes as Australia is boosting its military commitment to Afghanistan to tackle a resurgent Taliban and after a deadly week in the Iraqi capital Baghdad.

5. Iran, US take their fight to Afghanistan, M K Bhadrakumar, Asia Times, 2007-04-20In the latest US offensive against Iran, Tehran is implied to be arming the Taliban insurgency in Afghanistan. Washington could not be further off the mark, as Tehran has a fundamental problem with the Taliban's virulent anti-Shi'ite ideology. Certainly, though, the Iranians are not above meddling in Afghanistan's affairs, if only to make the US realize that its support of anti-Iranian terrorism from Afghan soil comes at a heavy price.
