The screenshot shows the Nautilus Institute website homepage for the year 2012. The header includes the Nautilus Institute logo and the tagline "FOR SECURITY AND SUSTAINABILITY". Below the header is a navigation menu with links for "GLOBAL PROBLEM SCOPING", "PROJECTS", "PUBLICATIONS", "MAILING LISTS", "ABOUT", "PARTNERS", and "CONTACT". The main content area features three featured articles:

- NAPSNet 29 March 2012 (March 29, 2012 NAPSNet Weekly Report):
 - DETERRENCE: Nuclear Security at the Seoul Summit
 - EPRI: N-Korea moves rocket to launch pad
 - CLIMATE CHANGE ADAPTATION: Climate variability and change in the Himalayas: Community perceptions and responses
 - ENERGY SECURITY: Local energy planning in practice: A review of recent experiences
 - GOVERNANCE AND CIVIL SOCIETY: Anti-nuclear activists see Summit grows from nuclear security
- Nuclear Security at the Seoul Summit (March 27, 2012 NAPSNet Special Reports):

Coming in the wake of the Fukushima nuclear accident, which starkly reminded the world of the perils posed by nuclear incidents, the Seoul Nuclear Security Summit faces a host of challenges. Shanon Squassone lays out what is at stake, what outcomes can be expected and how that, unfortunately, cannot.

Shanon Squassone is Director and Senior Fellow at the Proliferation Prevention Program of the Center for Strategic and International Studies.
- Nuclear Safety and Security After 3-11 (March 22, 2012 NAPSNet Special Reports):

The earthquake and tsunami of March 11, 2011, did more than just devastate Japan and unleash a local nuclear disaster. Peter Hayes notes that the events at the Fukushima nuclear plant exposed a host of design flaws in current nuclear technology whose solutions are linked to dramatically strengthening security issues.

Peter Hayes is Executive Director of the Nautilus Institute for Security and Sustainability.

On the right side of the page, there are sections for "LISTS/PUBLICATIONS" (including Nautilus Project and Security Network, Climate Change Adaptation Network, Nuclear Proliferation Briefing Desk, SIPRI Briefing Book, and Australia Forum) and "INITIATIVES" (including Moral Obligations, Climate Change and Strengthening Australia-Indonesian Security, Civil Security in East Asia, Korea Japan Nuclear Weapons Free Zone, and Nuclear Disarmament in East Asia). There is also a "Partner Link" section.
