1. US on DPRK Nuclear Program

Reuters (Chris Buckley , "U.S. HAILS COOPERATION ON NORTH KOREA, SEES NEW STEPS", Beijing, 2009/10/14) reported that the DPRK's neighbors and the United States are coordinating closely to draw it isolated state back to nuclear disarmament talks and reviewing possible next steps, Kurt Campbell, U.S. Assistant Secretary of State, told reporters Wednesday. "I have rarely seen better coordination between China and the United States in particular," said Campbell. "There is a virtually unprecedented acceptance of basic goals and ambitions associated with the six-party talks and negotiations with North Korea."

Bloomberg (Michael Forsythe, "U.S. SAYS N. KOREA TALKS MUST BE WITHIN 6-PARTY FORUM", 2009/10/14) reported that U.S. talks with the DPRK on dismantling its nuclear program must be held within the framework of broader six-nation negotiations, a position the PRC believes the DPRK accepts, Assistant U.S. Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs Kurt Campbell said. The PRC has told the DPRK that stand-alone dialogue with the U.S. is not "in the cards," Campbell told reporters in Beijing.

2. ROK on DPRK Missiles

Chosun Ilbo ("SEOUL ON ALERT FOR MORE N.KOREAN MISSILE TESTS", 2009/10/14) reported that the ROK military is on the alert for more DPRK short-range missile tests after the DPRK declared a navigation ban also in the West Sea after firing five short-range missiles into the East Sea on Monday. A government source said, "It seems that after making a similar decision for the East Sea, North Korea also banned navigation in waters off Jungsan-gun and Munduk-gun, South Pyongan Province until about Oct. 20. Although there are no concrete signs of preparations for missile tests yet, we're watching closely" in the West Sea.

Addressing the reception, Ismail Tiliwaldi, vice chairman of the Standing Committee of China's National People's Congress, said that PRC-DPRK good neighborly and friendly cooperation has been strengthened with joint efforts of both countries during the past 60 years.

5. Inter-Korea Relations

Associated Press ("N. KOREA VOICES REGRET OVER DEADLY FLOOD IN S. KOREA", Seoul, 2009/10/14) reported that the DPRK expressed regret Wednesday over the release of dam water that sparked flooding downstream blamed for six ROK deaths, as the two sides discussed how to prevent such incidents on their border, an official said. At 80-minute talks Wednesday suggested by the ROK and convened in the DPRK border town of Kaesong, the DPRK expressed its regret, Unification Ministry spokesman Lee Jong-joo said. The DPRK also said it had to discharge the waters to avoid a bigger catastrophe. "It was regrettable that unintended human casualties occurred," the DPRK chief delegate told ROK officials, Lee said.

Yonhap News (Byun Duk-kun, "CHEONG WA DAE WELCOMES NORTH'S APOLOGY OVER DAM DISCHARGE ", 2009/10/14) reported that the ROK's presidential office Cheong Wa Dae welcomed the DPRK's apology Wednesday for its unannounced discharge of flood waters that killed six people in the ROK last month, calling it a "positive sign" of thawing relations. "North Korea's prompt acceptance of our proposal for dialogue and its expression of such regret are believed to be very positive signs," Cheong Wa Dae spokesman Park Sun-kyoo told a daily press briefing.

Yonhap News (Kim Hyun, "N. KOREA HIGHLIGHTS IMPROVING RELATIONS WITH SOUTH AT U.N. MEETING ", Seoul, 2009/10/14) reported that the DPRK told a recent meeting of a U.N. organization that it will continue reconciliatory efforts toward the ROK and emphasized that the two sides' relations are improving, Pyongyang's media said Wednesday. "North-South relations on the Korean Peninsula are entering a new phase, in which moves have been made to bring together their views on the June 15 joint declaration and the October 4 declaration, which are landmarks for their better relations and reunification in the new century," an unidentified DPRK delegate said at the UNESCO general meeting.

6. Inter-Korea Economic Cooperation

Hankyoreh ("FORMER UNIFICATION MINISTER LEE JONG-SEOK SAYS TIME TO SEND AN ENVOY TO NORTH KOREA", 2009/10/14) reported that "In consideration of the trend towards expanding economic ties between North Korea and China, the strategic activation of inter-Korean economic cooperation is essential" former Unification Minister Lee Jong-seok said in a presentation on the path of inter-Korean relations under the DPRK nuclear issue at the second monthly "Korea Peace Forum" meeting held in Seoul. Lee noted that since PRC Prime Minister Wen Jiabao's two-day visit to the DPRK a "new economic relationship" between the DPRK and PRC has been taking shape. In pointing to the various agreements established during Wen's visit, including agreements addressing economic aid, economic exchanges and tourism, Lee said the PRC-DPRK economic cooperation agreement could be interpreted as multi-directional and the most comprehensive agreement reached since the collapse of the socialist bloc and the beginning of the post-Cold War period.

Chosun Ilbo ("NEW FIGHTER JETS CHRONICALLY SHORT OF SPARE PARTS", 2009/10/14) reported that faced with a shortage of spare parts for its newest F-15K fighter jets, the ROK Air Force is resorting to stripping components from one jet and putting them into another to keep them flying. According to documents the Air Force submitted to Grand National Party lawmaker Kim Jang-soo, who heads the National Assembly's Defense Committee, the rate of availability of new spare parts for F-15K fighter jets was 16 percent last year, compared to between 70 to 80 percent for other fighter planes.

9. Japan-US Military Relations

Agence France Presse (Shingo Ito , "US AIRBASE COULD STAY ON JAPAN'S OKINAWA, SAYS

GOVERNOR", Tokyo, ) reported that the governor of Japan's Okinawa prefecture said a US military base could stay on the island, officials said Wednesday. Okinawa Governor Hirokazu Nakaima on Tuesday submitted a position paper to the central government of Prime Minister Yukio Hatoyama in which he said the priority now was to move the base away from its current urban setting. "It's best to transfer the facility outside of the prefecture, but I would concede to a plan for the relocation within the prefecture in order to get rid of the danger (of its urban location) as soon as possible," Nakaima said in the statement, according to local government officials in Okinawa prefecture.

Agence France Presse (Shaun Tandon , "US DOCUMENTS POINT TO SECRET JAPAN NUCLEAR PACT", Washington, 2009/10/14) reported that despite decades of denials by Washington and Tokyo, US officials believe they enjoyed a secret pact to transport nuclear weapons through Japan, newly declassified documents showed. The National Security Archive at George Washington University released documents Tuesday showing US officials believed they had an understanding with Japan when the allies signed a new security treaty in 1960. A confidential State Department memo prepared in 1960 for then secretary of state Christian Herter to brief Congress said Washington had to consult Japan on "introduction of nuclear weapons."

11. Japan in Afghanistan

Kyodo News ("WORKING OUT NEW AFGHAN MEASURES NOT EASY TASK FOR JAPAN ", Tokyo, 2009/10/14) reported that following Foreign Minister Katsuya Okada's surprise visit to Afghanistan on Sunday, the Japanese government is stepping up its efforts to work out measures that can benefit the lives of the people in the conflict-ravaged country. But enhancing assistance is apparently not an easy task, with Japan's presence likely to wane with the planned end in January of the refueling mission and amid deteriorating security conditions there. "The security situation is deteriorating even in Kabul. It is difficult to expand contributions that would actually let (local people) know that Japanese people are working in the country," an official at the Japanese Foreign Ministry's International Cooperation Bureau said.

Agence France Presse ("US CALLS FOR GREATER CONTACT WITH CHINA MILITARY", Beijing, 2009/10/14) reported that the United States called Wednesday for more interaction with the PRC's military, as the two nations try to build trust over defence issues amid US concerns about Beijing's rapid military buildup. "More still needs to be done to ensure that our defence and military establishments both have greater... interaction with one another," US Assistant Secretary of State Kurt Campbell told reporters. ## 19. PRC Climate Change

USA Today (Dan Vergano, "CHINA COULD CHEAPLY CONTROL COAL-PLANT EMISSIONS", ) reported that Getting the PRC's coal-plant emissions out of the atmosphere so they don't worsen global warming may be cheaper, easier and longer-lasting than expected, a federal energy lab report finds. The Pacific Northwest National Laboratory report, set for release today in London, says there are vast underground reserves in the PRC that can be used for "carbon sequestration," a carbon dioxide-trapping technology considered vital to cutting greenhouse gas emissions. "Conventional thinking had been that the PRC did not have a lot of storage for carbon. But it turns out it does," says the lab's Robert Dahowski, the report's lead author. "Enough for many decades, perhaps hundreds of years."
