1. DPRK on Nuclear Program

Yonhap News ("KIM KYE-GWAN PURSUES SUCCESSFUL NUCLEAR TALKS: REPORT", 2009/10/20) reported that the DPRK's chief nuclear envoy says he wants to successfully conclude nuclear talks with the U.S. and improve ties with the world's superpower. "We are committing our own efforts for the good result and for the good future of relations between our two nations and for successful talks with the United States and to defend the peace, which is the common goal of our two nations, the Americans and the people of the DPRK, to live as friends," Vice Foreign Minister Kim Kye-gwan said.

2. US on DPRK Threat

Reuters (Phil Stewart and Jack Kim, "GATES SAYS NORTH KOREA'S MILITARY 'MORE LETHAL'", Seoul, 2009/10/21) reported that US Defense Secretary Robert Gates said on Wednesday that the DPRK had become a more deadly threat to the region. "America's long-term military commitment here recognizes that the peril posed by the North Korean regime remains, and in many ways has become even more lethal and destabilizing," Gates told U.S. and ROK troops in Seoul. "There should be no mistaking that we do not today, nor will we ever, accept a North Korea with nuclear weapons," said Gates.

3. US on Sino-DPRK Relations

Agence France-Presse ("CHINA COMMITTED TO NKOREA SANCTIONS: US ENVOY", Beijing, 2009/10/20) reported that a top US diplomat said that the PRC had expressed its commitment to implementing UN sanctions on the DPRK aimed at getting the isolated nation to return to six-nation denuclearisation talks. Ambassador Philip Goldberg, the US envoy charged with DPRK sanctions, told reporters he discussed the measures with Vice Foreign Minister He Yafei during talks in Beijing. "There is a commitment to implementing the sanctions with the overall goal of returning to the denuclearisation discussions," Goldberg said following the talks.

4. Sino-DPRK Relations

Xinhua News ("DPRK SENIOR MILITARY OFFICIAL MEETS PLA DELEGATION ", 2009/10/20) reported that a visiting delegation from the People's Liberation Army (PLA) of the PRC has met senior DPRK defense leadership during its visit here. Pak Jae-gyong, vice minister of People's Armed Forces of the DPRK met the delegation, led by Gao Wusheng, deputy political commissar of Nanjing Military Region. The visit provided a good opportunity to strengthen the exchange between the two armies, said Pak.

5. Japan-DPRK Relations

Kyodo News ("OKADA WANTS TO FAST-TRACK BILL FOR NORTH KOREA CARGO INSPECTIONS", 2009/10/20) reported that Foreign Minister Katsuya Okada said he wants a bill submitted to the Diet that would allow Japan to carry out strict inspections of DPRK cargo, despite Pyongyang's recent conciliatory moves. Okada's remarks came after Chief Cabinet Secretary Hirofumi Hirano had earlier indicated his reluctance to give the bill fast-track treatment. Hirano later told reporters the government is in "final considerations" about what to do with the bill. Okada said he told an informal ministerial session, "It's wrong to put off submission of the bill on grounds that North Korea is now taking a conciliatory approach."

6. Inter-Korean Relations

Korea Times ("PRESIDENT'S BROTHER MEETS NK OFFICIAL", 2009/10/20) reported that a top DPRK official and a ROK politician may have met in Jakarta, Indonesia, to test the waters for a possible inter-Korean summit, local broadcaster MBC reported. Citing an unidentified diplomatic source in Beijing, MBC reported that Kim Yang-gon, the DPRK's point man on the ROK, and Lee Sang-deuk, a governing Grand National Party lawmaker and brother to President Lee Myung-bak, may have met in the Southeast Asian capital, to prepare for the possible meeting.

Associated Press (Hyung-jin Kim, "SKOREA TO HELP NKOREA MODERNIZE HOT LINES", Seoul, 2009/10/21) reported that the ROK is providing the DPRK with optical cables and other equipment to help modernize military hot lines between the two nations. The hot lines were restored in September, according to Unification Ministry spokeswoman Lee Jong-joo. Pyongyang recently asked Seoul to help modernize the hot lines, Lee said. The ROK will provide Pyongyang with $1.7 million in equipment and materials next week, she said.

7. DPRK Economy

Xinhua News ("DPRK TOP LEADER CALLS FOR MARINE FISH PROPAGATION ", 2009/10/20) reported that Kim Jong Il, top leader of the DPRK, has called for conserving and propagating marine resources in a bid to develop the national economy and improve people's life, the official Rodong sinmun daily said. The DPRK has favorable conditions for salmon breeding as it has many rivers and lakes and is surrounded by seas, said Kim during a recent visit to a salmon breeding institute, the newspaper said, without giving the date and venue of the visit. Kim proposed building more salmon breeding farms and putting its breeding on an industrial, scientific and organized basis.

8. DPRK Forest Fires

NKeconWatch ("DPRK OCTOBER FOREST FIRES VIA NASA", 2009/10/20) reported that multiple fires burned in the DPRK in mid-October 2009, sending a plume of smoke over the Sea of Japan. The Moderate Resolution Imaging Spectroradiometer (MODIS) on NASA's Aqua satellite captured images of the fires on October 15. The smoke plumes blow uniformly eastward, some of the individual plumes coalescing into a single large plume over the sea.

9. US-ROK Security Alliance

Korea Times (Oh Young-jin, Bae Ji-sook, "SOLUTION FOR US BASE CLEANUPS IN SIGHT", 2009/10/20) reported that a thorny issue over who will pay for the environmental cleanup of U.S. military bases being vacated is finding an amicable solution, the ROK's top environment policymaker said. "A survey initially underestimated the costs of cleaning up Camp Hialeah in Busan by 25 percent but U.S. Forces Korea (USFK) will take care of it before returning it," said Environment Minister Lee Maan-ee. Lee said he was the first environment minister to meet with the USFK commander, now Gen. Walter Sharp, adding that their agreement came during their meeting.

10. ROK Role in Afghanistan

Yonhap ("S. KOREA MULLING MORE CONTRIBUTION TO AFGHANISTAN: OFFICIAL", 2009/10/20) reported that the ROK is seeking ways to do more in Afghanistan beyond its ongoing medical and job-training assistance, a senior government official said. The official did not elaborate on whether future contributions could include military support, saying that it is a matter to be decided by politicians. "What we have done there so far is not all. We will have to do something more," he told reporters.

12. Japan SDF Afghanistan Role

Kyodo News ("DEFENSE CHIEF TO STUDY SDF REDEPLOYMENT TO SUPPORT AFGHANISTAN", 2009/10/20) reported that Defense Minister Toshimi Kitazawa said he will look at plans to redeploy the Self-Defense Forces to help reconstruct Afghanistan after Japan's refueling mission in the Indian Ocean ends in January. Kitazawa's remarks add a new dimension to Japan's alternative support plan for the conflict-ravaged country, since the government has been focusing on civilian-based aid such as vocational training and farming assistance. The minister said he will try to explore Afghan aid plans involving SDF troops by weighing various suggestions.

13. Comfort Women Issue

Chosun Ilbo ("MORE JAPANESE FEEL NEED TO SAY SORRY TO 'COMFORT WOMEN'", 2009/10/20) reported that Japanese who believe that Tokyo should apologize for drafting thousands of Asian woman as sex slaves for the Imperial Army in World War II outnumber those who think otherwise for the first time, a straw poll suggests. The Northeast Asian History foundation commissioned Gallup Korea to poll 527 Seoul citizens, and 500 citizens each in Beijing and Tokyo from Aug. 1 to 9. In the poll released Monday, 48.9 percent of respondents in Tokyo said Japan should apologize to the "comfort women," while 30.3 percent said it does not need to.

16. Sino-Indian Relations

Christian Science Monitor ("RIVALS CHINA, INDIA IN ESCALATING WAR OF WORDS", 2009/10/20) reported that the PRC and India have taken a vituperative war of words and diplomatic barbs to an unusual level of tension in recent days, prompting fears that the traditional rivalry between the two Asian giants could spin out of control. "The most urgent present job for both sides is crisis management," says Han Hua, an expert on South Asia at Peking University. "I don't think either government wants the situation to go further downhill." But deeper resentments lie behind the spat, says Shen Dingli, deputy head of the PRC's South Asia Research Institute. "The structural problem is leadership," he argues. "The question is who leads in Asia?"

20. PRC Energy

Bloomberg News ("CHINA PLANS EMERGENCY OIL-STORAGE TANKS IN NORTHEAST", 2009/10/20) reported that the PRC, the world's second-largest energy consumer, is planning to build emergency oil-storage tanks in the country's northeast to help bolster fuel-supply security, potentially helping to spur future imports. The tanks are part of phase two of the PRC's oil reserves, Zhang Guobao, the head of the National Energy Administration, told reporters in Beijing today, without elaborating. The country is building its oil stockpiles in three stages. "If there's one more region for strategic stockpiling, it'll definitely increase China's crude imports," Wang Aochao, head of China energy research at UOB-Kay Hian Ltd., said by phone in Shanghai. "Imports may grow 10 to 12 percent a year."
