1. Russia on Resumption of Six Party Talks

Kyodo News ("RUSSIA HOPES FOR N. KOREA MINISTERIAL MEETING AT U.N.: REPORT", 2007-08-06) reported that Alexander Losyukov, Russian deputy foreign minister said the Six Party Talks should be called during the U.N. General Assembly session opening in New York on Sept. 19. "If the meeting is not held in New York on the sidelines of the General Assembly meeting, then the most likely time will be October," he said in Tokyo where he met with Japan's envoy Kenichiro Sasae.

2. DPRK Energy Working Group

Forbes ("SIX NATIONS TO MEET TUESDAY ON ENERGY AID FOR NORTH KOREA", 2007-08-06) reported that talks on how to supply almost one million tons of fuel oil or equivalent aid promised to the DPRK in return for a permanent nuclear shutdown will begin on Tuesday. The two-day meeting, at the inter-Korean border village of Panmunjom, is one of several working groups meeting to follow up the shutdown last month of its Yongbyon reactor.

3. Kaesong Wages

Voice of America ("NORTH KOREAN WORKERS GET A RAISE - FROM SOUTH KOREA", 2007-08-06) reported that ROK authorities have agreed to raise wages at a the inter-Korean Kaesong joint venture for the first time since the experimental zone was opened three years ago. The new pay rate guarantees the zone's 15,000 DPRK workers a minimum wage of $52.50 per month - a tiny fraction of what RO Korean laborers receive. The five percent increase is a compromise with the DPRK, which announced several weeks ago that the Kaesong workers would "go on strike" if their pay was not boosted by 15 percent.

4. DPRK-Russia Talks on Debt

Associated Press ("NORTH KOREA TO SETTLE DEBTS WITH RUSSIA", 2007-08-06) reported that Russia is currently planning negotiations with the DPRK on the Korean debt settlement for the fall 2007. Russia's Deputy Finance Minister Sergei Storchak said the DPRK's debt to the former USSR is estimated at $8bn, but the debt's exact evaluation poses certain difficulties, as it is denominated in various currencies and, most importantly, Korea has not yet acknowledged Russia as a moneylender.

8. ROK Hostages in Afghanistan

Yonhap ("TALIBAN MAKE FRESH THREAT ON S. KOREAN HOSTAGES AMID TALKS TO MEET DIRECTLY WITH SEOUL", 2007-08-06) reported that the Taliban reportedly made a new threat to start killing 21 South Koreans held hostage in Afghanistan, saying negotiations with the ROK government have not produced enough progress. Qari Yousuf Ahmadi, a purported spokesman for the Taliban, noted Seoul's efforts to arrange a direct meeting with Taliban militants, but said the ROK government was not trying hard enough, the Afghan Islamic Press (AIP) reported. It quoted Ahmadi as saying, "We can start killing the hostages at any time."

9. US-Japan Relations

Reuters ("JAPAN OPPOSITION RISKS U.S. IRE OVER AFGHAN MISSION", 2007-08-06) reported that Japan's main opposition Democratic Party and its allies agreed to oppose extending support for US-led operations in Afghanistan, a move that could sour security ties with the US. The decision by the opposition -- who won a majority in last week's election for parliament's upper house -- also risks deepening divisions within the Democratic Party, a sometimes fractious amalgam of former ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP) members, ex-socialists and hawkish younger conservatives.

10. Japan Nuclear Policy

The Associated Press ("ABE REAFFIRMS JAPAN'S COMMITMENT TO NONNUCLEAR POLICY", 2007-08-06) reported that Prime Minister Shinzo Abe said that Japan was committed to its non-nuclear policy and would work toward the abolition of nuclear weapons as Hiroshima marked the 62nd anniversary of the world's first atomic bomb attack, which killed more than 140,000 people in this city. "We will take an initiative in the international community and devote ourselves wholeheartedly toward the abolition of nuclear weapons and realization of peace," Abe said.

The magnitude-6.8 quake in Niigata caused malfunctions and leaks at the plant and raised concerns about safety at Japan's nuclear power stations. The International Atomic Energy Agency team, led by Philippe Jamet, its Nuclear Installation Safety Division director, started examining the plant Monday morning.

Itar-Tass ("SCO NOT OPPOSED TO ANYBODY - COMMANDER", 2007-08-06) reported that the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO) cannot be considered as a structure opposed to other states, the commander of SCO exercises Peace Mission-2007, Colonel-General Vladimir Moltensky, said. "The SCO was established for solving security problems in the Eurasian region for the struggle against terrorism, extremism and crossborder crime, for establishing borders of good neighborliness and friendship between its participants. It is not aimed against some country or a group of countries, including the US," he told ITAR-TASS.

At least 500 combat vehicles and aircraft were scheduled to begin the operation on Tuesday as part of an unprecedented move by the Shanghai Cooperation Organization. The SCO was originally launched as a non-military alliance in 2001 to combat drugs and weapons smuggling, but the military exercise is viewed by some strategists as being a way to show defiance against NATO, the Times said. The Associated Press ("REPORT: CHINA CURBS FOREIGN SATELLITE TV ", 2007-08-06) reported that the PRC is cracking down on cable television operators who offer unauthorized foreign satellite broadcasts — the PRC's latest bid to maintain its monopoly on information, a newspaper reported. The PRC's TV regulator last month ordered local authorities to root out operators that provide PRC homes with foreign channels, which are officially restricted to tourist hotels and compounds where foreigners work and live, Hong Kong's South China Morning Post newspaper reported.

15. PRC One Child Policy

The Associated Press ("CHINA BANS CRUDE BIRTH CONTROL SLOGANS ", 2007-08-06) reported that the PRC has banned crude and insensitive slogans promoting the country's 'one-child' family planning policy, such as "Raise fewer babies but more piggies," which have stoked anger in rural areas, state media said Sunday. The policy continues to engender anger and resentment, especially among farmers in the countryside, because of the sometimes brutal methods used to enforce it, such as heavy fines and the seizure of property. Local authorities themselves face demotions, criticism or the loss of jobs if they fail to hit population targets.
