1. Six Party Talks

The Associated Press ("CHINA: KOREAN NUKE TALKS WILL START NOV. 9", 2005-11-03) reported that the next of six party talks will begin November 9 in Beijing, the PRC government said on Thursday, appealing to the participants to be ready to make progress in the slow-moving negotiations. "If the parties concerned could ... make progress regarding the contents listed in the joint statement at last round, that will be considered positive progress," Kong said. He appealed to the six parties to "take an active and constructive attitude."

2. DPRK on Six Party Talks

Yonhap News ("N.K. URGES U.S. TO IMPLEMENT AGREEMENT AHEAD OF NEW TALKS", 2005-11-03) reported that the success of the next round of six party talks will depend on whether the US keeps its commitments to end its nuclear threats and provide light-water reactors, a senior DPRK official was quoted as saying on Thursday. The comments by Park Gil-yon, Pyongyang's top envoy to the UN, could signal that negotiations to implement the agreement reached in September will be difficult.

3. US on DPRK Nuclear Program

Yonhap News ("U.S. NOT DEMANDING UNILATERAL N.K. ACTION: DETRANI", 2005-11-02) reported that the US is not asking the DPRK to dismantle its nuclear weapons and programs unilaterally and is ready to correspond "action to action," a senior negotiator with Pyongyang said on Wednesday. "No one is asking the DPRK to unilaterally dismantle all of their programs before anything else happens," said Joseph DeTrani, deputy US delegate to the six party talks.

\(return to top\) Reuters ("US WOULD RETRAIN N. KOREAN NUCLEAR SCIENTISTS", 2005-11-02) reported that the US will offer details of its proposal to retrain thousands of DPRK nuclear scientists and engineers for more peaceful pursuits when six party talks resume later this month, a top US negotiator said on Wednesday. Joseph DeTrani, US special envoy for the DPRK, said he expected the talks to be productive as negotiators focus on the "actions for actions" needed to make progress toward an agreement aimed at ending Pyongyang's nuclear weapons program. He said it was hoped the DPRK's denuclearization could be accomplished within two years. Removing the DPRK from the US list of states accused of sponsoring terrorism is also under discussion, but the timing depends on the DPRK satisfying Japan's demands concerning the abduction of Japanese nationals by Pyongyang, DeTrani said. \(return to top\)

4. Inter-Korean Relations

Yonhap News ("S. KOREANS REQUIRED TO REPORT INTERNET CONTACT WITH N. KOREANS", 2005-11-03) reported that RO Koreans will be required to report any Internet-based contact with their DPRK compatriots from next month, the Unification Ministry said on Thursday. The ministry is in the final stages of revising the law on inter-Korean exchanges and cooperation to include the possibility RO Koreans and DPR Koreans may exchange e-mails or engage in e-commerce together.

5. Inter-Korean Economic Aid

Joongang Ilbo ("PARTIES SPAR OVER INTER-KOREAN FUND", 2005-11-03) reported that after the Ministry of Unification presented a plan to double the inter-Korean cooperation fund for next year, lawmakers engaged in fierce debates at a National Assembly session yesterday. The ministry told the Assembly it will need more than 2.63 trillion won ($2.5 billion) next year to operate state-funded programs to aid the DPRK. Grand National lawmaker Chun Yu-ok said next year's budget included an emergency reserve of 122.5 billion won, thus the ministry had no need for additional funding for electricity aid to the DPRK. However, Uri representative Lew Seon-ho said an enormous amount of money will be needed after unification, and it would be more economical to assist the DPRK now.

6. Inter-Korean Economic Cooperation

Yonhap News ("TWO KOREAS LAUNCH WEEKLY MEETING AT KAESONG OFFICE", 2005-11-03) reported that ROK and DPRK officials had their first weekly meeting at the inter-Korean economic office that opened late last month in Kaesong, Unification Ministry officials said on Thursday. "I understand there was lots of talk of each side doing its best to ensure that inter-Korean economic cooperation projects proceed smoothly," an official said, on condition of anonymity. "I also heard there was a good atmosphere at the meeting." The round-table discussion was used as an opportunity to gather opinions on ways to better manage the office, the official said.

7. Inter-Korean Athletic Cooperation

Reuters ("HURDLES AHEAD FOR TWO KOREA'S SINGLE OLYMPIC TEAM", 2005-11-02) reported that the ROK hailed a deal to field an inter-Korean joint Olympic team as a step towards unification, but analysts caution that the countries' political differences are too large to be bridged by sports diplomacy. "Linking this to reunification is a long shot," said Lee Dong-bok, a Seoul-based DPRK expert. Hwang Young-jo, gold medal winner for the ROK, is concerned that the selection process could favour DPRK athletes. "You have to ask whether we will be forced to give in, which will be a big problem because we've always believed that sports is an honest business," said Hwang.

8. DPRK-Japanese Relations

Agence France Presse ("JAPAN, NORTH KOREA RESUME DIALOGUE BUT HOPES OF PROGRESS REMAIN LOW", 2005-11-03) reported that after a year's break, Japan and the DPRK resumed talks on normalizing their relations amid a "good" atmosphere, but hopes of a breakthrough in ending historic tensions remained low. Both sides appeared locked in their positions, with Japan warning on Wednesday of possible economic sanctions against the DPRK unless the kidnapping issue is resolved. The DPRK, on the other hand, were intent on pushing Japan for reparations to atone for its colonial rule of the Korean peninsula between 1910 and 1945. Despite this the DPRK delegation leader, Song Il-Ho, told reporters after Thursday's morning session that the atmosphere had been "good". Japan's delegation chief, Akitaka Saiki, said the two sides had "serious exchanges on items of mutual concern".

\(return to top\) Kyodo News ("ABE SHOWS EASED STANCE ON ECONOMIC SANCTIONS ON N. KOREA", 2005-11-02) reported that Japan's Chief Cabinet Secretary Shinzo Abe showed a slightly more relaxed stance on Wednesday regarding economic sanctions against the DPRK as a means of resolving the issue of Pyongyang's abduction of Japanese nationals. "We hope to steadily work toward resolving the abduction issue," Abe said at a news conference in Tokyo. "It is important for North Korea to respond sincerely, but if it does not, we have to think about various things." Foreign Ministry Press Secretary Yoshinori Katori said that the Japanese government has been dealing with the DPRK with both "dialogue and pressure" and will consider the most effective measure to take following the bilateral talks. ## 9. APEC Discuss DPRK Economy

Yonhap News ("APEC CEOS TO DISCUSS WAYS TO PROMOTE KAESONG INDUSTRIAL PARK", 2005-11-03) reported that according to the Indonesian ambassador to Seoul, Indonesia has been persuading the DPRK to open up and will continue to do so in the upcoming regional forum in Busan. Indonesia proposed that Asia-Pacific business leaders discuss increasing imports of industrial products made in the inter-Korean industrial complex in Kaesong, Indonesian Ambassador Jakob Tobing told Yonhap News Agency.

10. DPRK Food Aid

Chosun Ilbo ("UN SAYS N. KOREA COULD LOSE AID ", 2005-11-01) reported that the World Food Program (WFP) said the DPRK may lose critical food aid by insisting that humanitarian aid is limited to development assistance. The WFP and other agencies said it is too early for the transition as the country still needs relief to feed its people. Talks last week between the WFP and DPRK officials on the future of food aid ended without agreement and more negotiations are scheduled for mid-November.

11. DPRK Human Rights

Chosun Ilbo ("EU SUBMITS N. KOREAN RESOLUTION TO UN PLENARY SESSION", 2005-11-03) reported that the European Union submitted a resolution on Wednesday condemning the DPRK's human rights abuses to the UN General Assembly. The resolution calls for an end to the DPRK's brutal treatment of defectors and its systematic human rights violations including torture, illegal detention, public executions, and forced labor. ROK Foreign Minister Ban Ki-moon said on Thursday that there was a good chance the resolution will pass, but added, "There are some countries with different views on the matter." Ban also said the ROK has yet to decide on its position. "The government will make a decision after reviewing its stance on previous UN Human Rights Committee resolutions condemning North Korean human rights abuses, the situation on the Korean Peninsula and progress made in six-party talks. The General Assembly is expected to vote on the resolution between November 17 and 23.

12. DPRK Defectors

BBC News ("DEFECTOR GIVES UP ON NORTH KOREA", 2005-11-03) reported that a woman who left her native Japan to live in the DPRK has decided that the country is less alluring than she first thought. Kazumi Kitagawa, 31, defected two years ago claiming she was persecuted in Japan after being forced to be a government mole in a doomsday cult. On entering the DPRK, she initially expressed excitement, saying she wanted to study the Korean language and work as a translator. Later, though, she complained about her cold hotel room, the constant surveillance by guards, and the lack of Japanese cosmetics, clothes, and snacks. The DPRK confirmed on Thursday she had been allowed to leave.
