1. US-DPRK Nuclear Talks

Agence France Presse ("US, NORTH KOREA MAKE THIRD CONTACT TO BREAK NUCLEAR IMPASSE", 2005-08-22) reported that the US and DPRK held bilateral talks for the third time in a week prior to the resumption of Six Party Talks. White House spokesman Sean McCormack did not provide details on what was discussed with DPRK officials in New York, stating that Monday's meeting "is part of the diplomatic process in anticipation of the second part of this round of negotiations." The US is also holding separate discussions with the PRC, ROK, and Japan ahead of the resumption of the Six Party Talks in Beijing during the week of August 29. \(return to top\)

The Associated Press ("NATIONS MAKE PROGRESS IN N. "We have a set of measures that make it unnecessary for them to have a nuclear program," he told reporters Tuesday. He said the aim also was to set a basis for wider accords, including a formal end to the Korean War more than 60 years ago. The issue, Hill said, was not a "show-stopper," meaning it would not stop an overall agreement to end the DPRK's nuclear weapons program. \(return to top\)
