Korea

1. Inter-Korean Talks

The ROK accepted a DPRK proposal for dialogue at Mount Kumgang. The DPRK earlier warned that military exercises near Seoul had made the atmosphere for talks "complicated." The ROK proposed that the Cabinet meeting take place on November 9-12, but the DPRK has yet to respond. ROK Unification Minister Hong Soon-young is reportedly seeking a meeting with DPRK leader Kim Jong-il on the sidelines of the talks.

People's Republic of China

1. PRC-US Relations

The PRC on October 30 criticized the US State Department's report on the PRC's religious policy. During a meeting with visiting San Francisco Mayor Willie Brown, PRC President Jiang Zemin said Sino-US relations can continuously improve and expand as long as the two sides respect each other, treat each other on an equal footing, seek common ground while reserving differences and properly handle the Taiwan issue and other issues.

"PRC-US Relations" (NAPSNet Daily Report, November 1, PRC)

2. PRC-Russian Relations

Russian President Vladimir Putin told PRC Vice-President Hu Jintao that relations have reached a new high as the PRC ratified a major Sino-Russian bilateral agreement on October 27.

5. PRC Position on Anti-Terrorism

PRC Premier Zhu Rongji said during a meeting with German Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder that Eastern Turkestan separatists should be targeted by the global war on terrorism.

"PRC Position on Anti-Terrorism" (NAPSNet Daily Report, November 1, PRC)

6. Analysis of PRC Vice President Hu Jintao

The New York Times carried an analysis of PRC Vice President Hu Jintao, who is expected to succeed Jiang Zemin in the winter of 2002. Some Western diplomats say they are hopeful that he will be a force for faster change, but they also admit that they just do not know. One unresolved question is whether Jiang will also step down as chairman of the military commission.

"Analysis of PRC Vice President Hu Jintao" (NAPSNet Daily Report, October 29, US)

7. PRC Ratification of Anti-Terror Treaties

Xinhua news agency reported that the PRC parliament has ratified two international anti-terror treaties.
