3. US-DPRK Talks

US officials said that there was a great deal of progress during recent talks in Rome, despite earlier reports that the DPRK had demanded compensation for the delay in reactor construction. US President Bill Clinton said that US and DPRK officials would resume talks next week in Kuala Lumpur on the search for remains of US soldiers missing in action during the Korean War.

4. ROK-US Talks

ROK officials said that ROK President Kim Dae-jung was likely to hold talks with US President Bill Clinton when the two attend the funeral of late Japanese Prime Minister Keizo Obuchi on June 8. Both ROK and Japanese officials denied, however, that the two would hold a trilateral meeting with Japanese Prime Minister Yoshiro Mori.

5. Implementation of Agreed Framework

Jim Mann argued that threats to strike for higher wages by DPRK workers involved in the light-water reactor construction project were an attempt by the DPRK to squeeze more money out of its dialogue partners. The Washington Post reported that the US had finished sealing the fuel rods taken from the Yongbyon reactor.

8. Cross-Straits Relations

Richard Halloran wrote that, despite Taiwan President Chen Shui-bian's apparent soft stance toward the PRC, he is pushing Taiwan in a direction that could ultimately lead to cross-Straits conflict with the PRC. The People's Liberation Army Daily said that Taiwan had a choice between a future as part of an emerging superpower or being engulfed in a "sea of fire." Raymond Burghardt, director of the American Institute in Taiwan, said that the US will not pressure Taiwan to accept the PRC's conditions for talks

10. US-PRC Relations

PRC President Jiang Zemin and US President Bill Clinton had a phone conversation in which they agreed that US-PRC relations were improving in the wake of the US House of Representatives' approval of Permanent Normal Trading Relations (PNTR) for the PRC. Greg Mastel argues that despite PNTR, the PRC is certain to continue to pose a challenge to U.S. interests, while Mackubin Thomas Owens compares the rise of the PRC with that of Germany in the beginning of the 20th century.

15. US-Russian Summit

Most analysts do not expect any major accords in the upcoming summit between US President Clinton and Russian President Vladimir Putin, although others do believe that an agreement on amending the Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty is possible. Many Europeans, however, doubted that Clinton could convince Putin that the DPRK's missile program constituted a real threat.
