DETERRENCE: General Herbert J. “Hawk” Carlisle
Commander, Pacific Air Forces, transcript, Defense Writers Group, July 29, 2013

AirSea Battle “is cross-domain coordination; it’s cross-domain capabilities. It’s the ability to do it in a denied and contested environment. It covers everything. It covers training...it’s about buying things and it’s some of that, but that’s only part of it....It’s doctrine. It’s organizations. It’s training. It’s exercising.”

DPRK: Agreements on Cooperation Between Governments of DPRK, Mongolia signed. \(North\) Korea Central News Agency, \(28 October 2013\)

Kim Jong-un hosted his first Head of State visit - Mongolia’s President. Kim’s choice of a “third neighbor” was a safe avenue to bolster Kim’s domestic standing, access capital investment and indirectly signals that North Korea intends to set a foreign policy independent of (but not antagonistic to) China. Mongolia is also a mineral rich country with experience turning ground into gold. Refugees and goods only have so many paths out of North Korea.

ENERGY SECURITY: The Buck Stops Nowhere, Editorial, Japan Times [12 September 2013]

Splitting of the atoms has perhaps become the most divisive technology ever, and the biggest gamble ever, except to the warriors of the fight against global warming. Japan decides no criminal indictments will result from Fukushima investigations. Exxon-Mobil calls for more nuclear power, perhaps betting that it will guarantee oil and gas a firm foothold while the plants are built. As for a solution to limit GHG emissions, the “all of the above, including nuclear” is just a way of holding on to dreams of the past.

GOVERNANCE & CIVIL SOCIETY: Park Proposes 'Silk Road Express' to Connect Eurasian Nations, Yonhap (18 October 2013)

The ROK is proposing a trans-Asia railway connecting the Korean peninsula to Europe through Russia and China. The ROK is considering the use of the DPRK's Najin Port via a partnership with Russia as a way of realizing this initiative, given the difficulties in the ROK-DPRK relationship. ASEAN leaders expressed their support of the ROK's proposal for a Northeast Asia peace and cooperation initiative and actions to take by 2017 to deepen cooperation.

CLIMATE CHANGE ADAPTATION: Climate Change and Health: A Tool to Estimate Health and Adaptation Costs, WHO Regional Office for Europe, World Health Organization - WHO (2013) [8.30 MB, PDF]

This economic analysis tool supports health adaptation planning in European Member States. It provides guidance on estimating (a) the costs associated with damage to health due to climate change, (b) the costs for adaptation in various sectors to protect health from climate change and (c) the efficiency of adaptation measures, i.e. the cost of adaptation versus the expected returns, or averted health costs. The tool consists of a document describing the methods and a manual with an Excel spreadsheet, which is a visual aid for calculating costs.

AUSTRAL PEACE AND SECURITY: The Nuclear War Scare of 1983: How Serious Was It?, Paul Dibb, Special Report, Australian Strategic Policy Institute (October 2013)

In 1983 the world stood on the edge of the nuclear abyss without our American ally even realising it. What do we learn from all this? That America could get it so badly wrong. That the US understood little about Soviet decision-making processes or perceptions of the US. That the potential for dangerous stand-offs between China and the US requires us to not exaggerate China's military.

The Nautilus Peace and Security Weekly Report presents articles and full length reports each week in six categories: Austral security, nuclear deterrence, energy security, climate change and security, the DPRK, climate change adaptation and governance and civil society. Our team of contributors carefully select items that highlight the links between these themes and the three regions in which our offices are found—North America, Northeast Asia, and the Austral-Asia region.
