BERKELEY, CA, AUGUST 20, 1999 --

Julianne Traylor, one of the Principal Investigators in the California Global Corporate Accountability Project, has been named chairwoman of Amnesty International USA. Ms. Traylor is a founder and Project Director of Human Rights Advocates, which, along with the San Francisco-based Natural Heritage Institute, is collaborating with the Nautilus Institute in the Corporate Accountability Project. Amnesty International, the nation's largest grassroots human rights organization, will begin a yearlong program on human rights and environment next month.
